Dear Graduate and Professional Students,

The CWRU Medical Humanities and Social Medicine (MHSM) Initiative is pleased to announce the 2018 Medicine, Society and Culture Travel Grant Competition for Graduate and Professional Students. The MHSM Initiative, supported by the School of Medicine’s Department of Bioethics, is a university-wide interdisciplinary effort that aims to draw on and nurture CWRU’s extensive strengths related to understanding social, cultural and ethical factors in promoting health and well-being.

These awards, of $250 each, are to support travel for graduate and professional students to present at a national or international meeting or conference on topics related to medical humanities and social medicine. They are open to any graduate or professional student at Case Western Reserve University.

The applications will be judged by an interdisciplinary committee of CWRU faculty. The criteria for selection are (1) an accepted abstract for a poster, paper or presentation, and (2) contribution to scholarship related to medical humanities and social medicine. Applications are due Tuesday, April 10th, 2018 by 11:59pm via email to MSC Coordinator Julia Knopes at jcb193@case.edu.

Recipients may have the opportunity to share their work at the Medicine, Society and Culture Seminar series sometime in the calendar year following the award. Each $250 award will be reimbursed according to usual university policies. Please see the attached application form.

Feel free to contact me with any questions at Eileen.Anderson-Fye@case.edu.

Sincerely,

Eileen P. Anderson-Fye, Ed.D.
Associate Professor of Bioethics and Psychiatry
Director, Bioethics MA
Director, Medicine, Society and Culture
School of Medicine
Case Western Reserve University

Jonathan Sadowsky, Ph.D.
Theodore J. Castel Professor of Medical History
Associate Director, Medicine, Society and Culture
Case Western Reserve University
2018 Medical Humanities & Social Medicine Graduate Student Travel Grants

Please email completed application to Julia Knopes at jcb193@case.edu by March 1, 2018 11:59pm.

Name_________________________________________________

Email address__________________________________________

Candidate for the degree of____________________________

In the department/school of________________________________

Expected graduation date________________________________

Abstract title___________________________________________

Conference title________________________________________

Conference date________________________________________

Please attach a C.V., résumé, or biosketch.

Please attach the accepted abstract

Please describe how this work enhances the study of medical humanities and/or social medicine (80 words).
Dear Graduate and Professional Students,

The Medicine, Society and Culture Program in the Department of Bioethics is pleased to announce the 2018 Medical Humanities & Social Medicine Graduate Student Summer Research Grants.

These awards, of up to $4000 each, are to support pilot or ongoing research at the intersection of culture, society, health and medicine. They are open to any graduate or professional student at Case Western Reserve University. The deadline to submit an application is Tuesday, April 10th, 2018 by 11:59pm.

The grants will be judged by an interdisciplinary committee of faculty. The criteria for selection are intellectual merit in a field related to medical humanities and social medicine as well as potential impact on the student’s trajectory and professional development. Recipients will present a pre-circulated paper at a Medicine, Society and Culture seminar or event one time within the calendar year following the award.

Expenses up to $4000 as per the budget and justification will be reimbursed according to usual university policies. Please see the attached application form, and submit your application via email to MSC Coordinator Julia Knopes at jcb193@case.edu.

Please contact me with any questions at eileen.anderson-fye@case.edu.

Sincerely,

Eileen P. Anderson-Fye, Ed.D.
Associate Professor of Bioethics and Psychiatry
Director, Bioethics MA
Director, Medicine, Society and Culture
School of Medicine
Case Western Reserve University

Jonathan Sadowsky, Ph.D.
Theodore J. Castele Professor of Medical History
Associate Director, Medicine, Society and Culture
Case Western Reserve University
2018 Medical Humanities & Social Medicine Graduate Student Summer Research Grants

Please submit your completed application with all materials via email to Julia Knopes at jcb193@case.edu.

Name_________________________________________________

Email address__________________________________________

Contact phone_________________________________________

Candidate for the degree of?______________________________

In the department/school of?______________________________

Expected graduation date_________________________________

Please attach a C.V., résumé, or biosketch.

Please answer the following 4 questions with the word counts allotted:

1. What are your goals and plan for research should you receive this award? (400 words)
2. How do you plan to accomplish the stated plan in #1? (250 words)
3. What is the intellectual merit of this project to your field? (100 words)
4. What is the intellectual merit of this project to medical humanities and/or social medicine? (100 words)
5. How will this award help your professional trajectory? (200 words)

Please attach a budget up to $4000 and a budget justification including explanation for each category of expense.